KINGSTON POST ADVANCES ITS PLANS FOR MEMORIAL BUILDING

County Legionnaires to Share in its Erection and Use, According to Present Plans—Building Committee Named and Fund Well Under Way.

A building committee which will take up the matter of the erection of a suitable World War memorial building in this city has been appointed and this committee will confer with the American Legion Posts in the county in regard to the plans for a county memorial and advise ways and means to put such a proposition across. This action was taken at the meeting of Kingston Post last Friday evening when such a committee was authorized. The following were named on that committee Saturday.

Stanley Matthews chairman; Thomas F. Coughlin, R. C. Dittus, Charles Dixon, John M. Mac Ginnes, Ednah C. Smith, A. R. Leighton, Dr. Fred Snyder, Robert R. Rodie, James F. Loughran, Frank L. Meagher, Albert Vogel, Henry Forst, Dr. J. P. Reading, James A. Dwyer, and the following officers of Kingston Post; Dr. Cranston, first vice-commander; Herman I. DuBois, second vice-commander; Ralph M. Winant, third vice-commander; Eugene Carey, adjutant, R. F. Chidsey, treasurer; the Rev. Gregory Mabry, chaplain; A. J. Murphy, Jr., athletic officer; Chris J. Melbert, sergeant at-arms; Edward Fitzgerald, quartermaster; Bernard V. Roach, historian; Robert Groves, insurance officer.

The committee will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the armory.

A building suitable for a meeting place for the members of the Legion as well as an auditorium has been talked over for a long time and each year a sum of money has been put aside from various sources as a "building fund" with which to erect a suitable World War memorial. A considerable sum has thus been placed to the credit of the "building fund." The committee which has been appointed will meet with the other posts in the county and plans will be discussed. The present plans are for the erection of a county memorial building in this city.

Architect Charles S. Keefe, a Spanish war veteran, has offered his services gratis in preparing plans for the building. At the meeting Friday evening he submitted plans for a building which would cost in the neighborhood of $16,000 with an auditorium in the rear which would cost about $6,500 additional.

These plans were submitted as a suggestion and when the committee becomes organized and begins to function various other ideas will be suggested. The appointment of the committee is the second step toward the county memorial, the first being the creation of the legion "building fund" some time ago. Nearly $1,000 more will be added to the fund as the result of the recent Victory dance at the armory.

FORD IS UPSET IN COLLISION

An automobile accident happened Saturday afternoon at the corner of Elmendorf street and Smith avenue when a Ford sedan of John Trachler and a Studebaker car of R. A. Bernard Obenaus, both of this city, attempted to occupy the same spot at the same moment. The result was that the Ford sedan was turned over and quite badly damaged while the Studebaker suffered lesser injuries. The Ford car was being driven along Smith avenue and the Studebaker was proceeding out Elmendorf street. Obenaus, who is employed in the Miller barber shop on Fair street, was proceeding to his home for lunch. The Ford was caught near the rear end and was turned completely over with the wheels in the air, the engine still running and the wheels spinning. No one was injured. A large crowd quickly collected and assisted the unfortunate parties. According to those on the spot, excessive speed on the part of Obenaus caused the accident.

Mr. Trachler calmly climbed out of the overturned car as also did a hound dog which tucked its tail between its legs and streaked it for parts unknown.

REFORMED CHURCH MEN'S CLUB MEETS TUESDAY.

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the Church of the Comforter will be held in its club rooms Tuesday evening, November 21, at 8 o'clock. There will be a stereopticon educational feature on the "History of the Telephone," given by A. L. Harder. In addition to this lecture there will be another special item, the featuring of the "Two D's."

HIS MOTORCYCLE SKIDS; CARR'S LEG IS HURT.

Fred Carr, son of Arthur Carr of Lucas avenue, met with a motorcycle accident Friday evening while on his way to Binghamton, to attend the Kingston-Binghamton football game which took place there Saturday. At Oneonta the machine upon which he was riding struck a patch of oil on a turn and the machine skidded, throwing the rider. He sustained a badly scraped leg.

M'SWINEY SISTERS TAKE NO FOOD

Annie Shows Bad Effect of Weather Outside Prison Door—Mary's Condition "Unchanged."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, Nov. 20.—Four days and nights of starvation, meanwhile exposed to the weather's rain, winds and fog, today had not daunted the indomitable courage of Annie MacSwiney who went on hunger strike at the gates of Mt. Joy jail in protest against the continued imprisonment of her sister, Mary, who is inside undergoing the sixteenth day of a hunger strike of her own.

Both are sisters of the late Terence Mac Swiney, Sinn Fein lord mayor of Cork; who killed himself by hunger striking in Brixton prison in London.

Her face and hands blue with cold, weak, trembling and haggard from nervousness and lack of nourishment, Annie Mac Swiney sat on a chair just outside the prison entrance while a little group of sympathizing women hovered around her.

A heavy blanket was thrown across the knees of the starvation-rebel. Her lips, purple with cold and starvation, moved with an inaudible prayer. Some of the women knelt at her side and bathed her hands and face with warm water brought from a neighboring house.

At Annie's Mac Swiney's feet was a muddy straw mattress upon which she had attempted to snatch some sleep. At her side was a little table upon which was a crucifix between two candles. The candles were lighted, but the flame fluttered out in a gust of wind.

On the great nail studded door of the prison, one of Annie's friends had nailed a picture of "Our Mother of Sorrows."

"If I am allowed to visit my sister, Mary, I will leave, but if not I will die here," said the forlorn sentinel in a weak voice. "They tell me that Mary is dying, but I do not know. I want to go to her so bad. I want to comfort her.

"The only bad effect I feel is a terrible pain in my head.

"When I asked for admittance to the prison Friday, Governor O'Keefe met me with jeers and mockery and absolutely declined. But I made a resolution to try to enter every time the gates were opened. Once I succeeded but I was seized and roughly turned out again. I ask nothing more from the government than the English allowed us when Terrence was in Brixton jail. The English killed Terrence, but they showed us courtesy.

"If I die, I will be the victim of the agents of the English in Ireland."

Prison attendants said that the condition of Mary Mac Swiney was "unchanged."

While Annie and her women friends and sympathizers maintained their vigil, an armored car containing Free State troops slowly patrolled the streets around the prison to prevent disorders and any attempt to raid the jail.

A party of Republican women, including Mrs. Despard, the Countess of Markiewicz and Mrs. Geune MacBride, visited the residence of the Catholic archbishop to discuss the hunger strike of the Mac Swiney women. They left cheering, indicating that the prelate had offered to assist them.

SENATOR NEWBERRY RESIGNS; ACCEPTS VOTERS' VERDICT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Senator Truman H. Newberry resigned his seat in the United States Senate yesterday. His resignation was accepted by Governor Alex J. Groesbeck.

Newberry's resignation ended a stormy chapter, fraught with court actions, lawsuits, moves to unseat him by the Senate, and finally by the defeat of his colleague from Michigan, Senator Charles E. Townsend, Republican, who attributed his own defeat to his defense of Newberry.

Newberry also said he was prompted to resign by the rebuke given senators who voted to seat him, at the last election, and the fact that in the new Senate a move to expel undoubtedly would pass.

Newberry's statement to the governor lays his decision to resign to the action of the voters on Townsend's candidacy.

Two Auto Collisions.

Two automobile collisions on Saturday were reported to the police department. John Trachler of No. 140 Smith avenue in his Ford sedan was struck by a Studebaker driven by Richard Obenaus of No. 85 Garden street. Both cars were damaged. The same afternoon Joseph Osterhoudt of Saugerties drove up to Ten Broeck's Garage on Railroad avenue to get some gas and his car collided with a taxi parked at the curb.

Third Avenue Property Sold.

Hugh Dougherty of Asbury Park, N. J., has bought through Moore's real estate office, the cottage of Mrs. Ella Nitka, 182 Third avenue. After remodeling the house throughout Mr. Dougherty intends making this his future home.

EMIL BACHELET PROMISES A REVOLUTIONARY DISCOVERY

Addressing Vocational Teachers, He Says He Will Soon Disclose Method of Putting Energy of Reaction, Now Wasted, To Work—Service President of Vocational Club.

Emil Bachelet, speaking before the vocational teachers at the high school Saturday, announced that in a very short time he would have a tremendously important electrical discovery to disclose; one in which all the reactions of action will be utilized without stopping the action, thus releasing an unthinkably enormous amount of energy. Mr. Bachelet is research engineer for the Bachelet Medical Appliance Company of this city.

There was held at the Kingston High School on Saturday afternoon an important meeting of the Hudson Valley Vocational Club, composed of teachers. The meeting was presided over by the president, Lee N. Taplin, of Poughkeepsie. A new constitution for this organization was adopted and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Robert J. Service of Kingston; vice president, Joseph C. Cogg of Poughkeepsie; secretary and treasurer, Miss Marie Schnitzler of Kingston. After the election Mr. Service took the chair.

The conference was almost entirely technical in character, having to do with methods of instruction in this pioneer work in our schools.

Superintendent Myron J. Michael welcomed the teachers to his official home in the Board of Education office, and then told briefly of his visits to various schools enroute to California and in California, telling particularly of the marvelous equipment for vocational work that he found in many schools of the west.

Before the conference split up into sections Oakley Furney of the State Department of Education addressed the teachers, and spoke of the advantages of joining the national vocational teachers' organization.

Under the Homemaking Section, there was a prolonged round table discussion led by Miss Emma Conley of the State Department of Education, the various branches of the work being considered as follows: "Home Project Reports and Records," discussed by Miss Florence Mead of Catskill; "Conduct of the School Lunch," discussion led by Miss Ellen Squires of Highland; "The Vocational Homemaking Course," discussion led by Miss May Davis of Kingston; "Elective Course in Home Economics," discussion led by Miss Margaret O'Connell of Poughkeepsie.

At the same time Mr. Furney addressed another group of teachers on "Teaching the Related Subjects in the Part-Time School."

At 4 o'clock, Emil Bachelet, research engineer for the Bachelet Medical Appliance Company, gave an exceedingly interesting illustrated talk on "The Science of Electricity, Repulsion and Magnetism," during which he made the announcement above stated.

FORD TO MINE HIS OWN COAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 20.—In accordance with his program of supplying for himself all raw materials required for the manufacture of automobiles, Henry Ford has bought a coal mine for $1,250,000, according to a report carried here today by a news ticker company.

Mr. Ford's mine is known as the Dexcar Colliery and is situated in the non-union field at Davey, MacDowell county, West Virginia, on the line of the Norfolk & Western Railroad. It produces a valuable fuel for the manufacture of coke which is used in steel making. Its monthly output is from 25,000 to 40,000 tons.

The automobile manufacturer paid $1,000,000 cash to Dexter & Carpenter, former owners, and will turn over the remaining $250,000 in a few weeks. Dexter & Carpenter retain the distribution rights for the fuel mined over and above Mr. Ford's needs.

COUNTY DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE MEETING SATURDAY

There will be a regular Dairymen's League county meeting following the monthly directors' meeting held in New York, in Kingston, in the court house on Saturday afternoon, November 25th, at 1 o'clock.

Vital questions pertaining to the milk business will be discussed and every person interested in the milk situation will be welcome at the meeting. The meeting is to be held in Kingston so local distributors may have an opportunity to be present at a county meeting.

Service at Lyonsville.

Lyonsville, Nov. 20.—Dr. Amerman has been engaged to preach at the Reformed Church next Sunday afternoon. Service begins at 2:30 o'clock. All are welcome.

W. S. CROSSING CASE ADJOURNED

This morning in police court an adjournment was taken until next Monday in the hearing of L. H. Vermilye, a conductor on the West Shore railroad, who was arrested by Officer Roedell on a charge of blocking the Broadway crossing with his freight train on Saturday night for a period of 25 minutes. Amos Van Etten represents the railroad and Corporation Counsel W. N. Gill the city.

ACCORD'S SUCCESSFUL LOCAL TALENT SHOW

On Friday night November 17th, the Community Singing organization of Accord put on a most successful entertainment.

The first sketch was a one-act dramatic sketch written by Mr. and Mrs. Eppes entitled "Jack Norton's Dream." Miss Nellie Davenport took the part of Zuleka, a girl of the desert. Miss Davenport carried her part in a most pleasing manner, displaying more than an unusual amount of skill in the portrayal of the character of Zuleka. H. M. Eppes took the part of Jack Norton in his usual efficient manner.

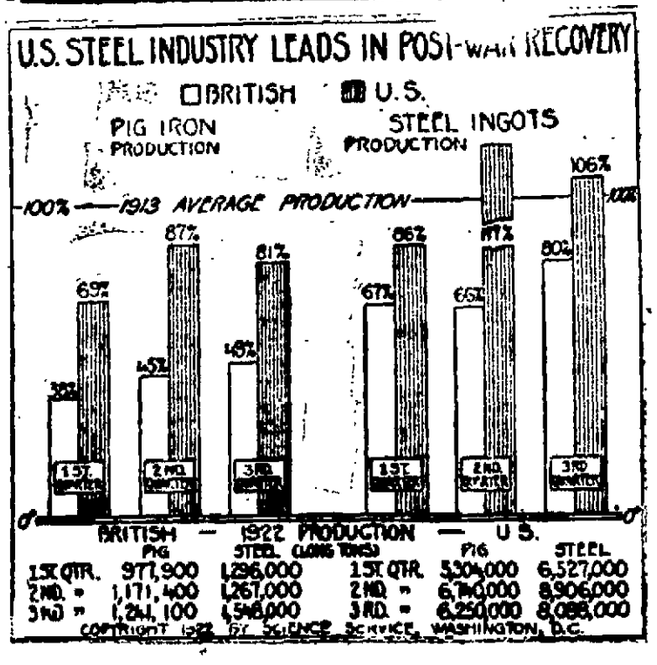

The second sketch was a variety of comedy presented by Mrs. Perley Morse, Miss Christiana and H. M. Eppes. This was followed by dancing for the balance of the evening. It was one of the most successful entertainments of local theatrical talent ever presented in the Rondout valley.

Two Police Court Cases.

Joseph Steinhilber was again arrested on a charge of public intoxication and will be given a hearing later. He was picked up on Wall street Saturday night by Officer Welch. Abraham Bahl of 92 Broadway, was arrested Sunday morning by Officer Soper on a charge of speeding on Broadway. He also will be given a hearing later.

BUSINESS DAY by DAY as the Government sees it

PREPARED BY RALPH F. COUCH

CONGRESS BEGINS SPECIAL SESSION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The 67th Congress, recalled by President Harding to act on the administration's ship subsidy bill, convened promptly at 12 o'clock today.

The senate adjourned fifteen minutes after it met out of respect to the late Senator Tom Watson of Georgia, without transacting any business or without swearing in any of those entitled to seats in the new session.

Senators who were to have been sworn in today, included Mrs. W. H. Felton of Georgia, Thomas F. Bayard, Democrat, Delaware, who succeeded Senator Dupont and Senators Pepper and Reed of Pennsylvania whose terms expired at the end of the last session.

Washington, Nov. 20—Called back in special session by President Harding to act on the proposed ship subsidy, the 67th Congress reassembled today with the startling upsets of the recent election still uppermost in the thoughts of senators and representatives of both parties.

Speculation was rife in both chambers as to what President Harding would have to say about the ship subsidy when he addresses congress in joint session tomorrow. The battle lines between the proponents and opponents of the measure were already tightly drawn, but administration spokesmen expressed confidence in the ability of the Republican "whips" of the House to carry out their plan to jam the bill through the lower chamber by November 29.

But even they were dubious regarding its fate in the senate where the real fight over it is not expected to start until after the present congress recovenes regularly on December 4 for its final session which is to end at midnight March 3.

With Senators Lafollette of Wisconsin and Borah of Idaho leading a small but militant group of progressives against it on the Republican side and the Democrats almost solidly lined up in opposition to it, even its most sanguine supporters concede there is a lot of hard sledding ahead of it.

The house merchant marine committee will tackle the bill first this week and before it is reported favorably, a strong attempt will be made to amend it materially, especially by loading it down with provisions relating to the "dry" embargo on American shipping. The struggle to change the measure in committee will be renewed in the House, but the administration leaders hope by clapping on the customary "gag" rule to choke off all efforts to emasculate it.

While the House is wrestling with the subsidy problem, the senate will have little to do but talk.

The proposed Liberian loan and the Dyer anti-lynching bill are the principal measures on the senate calendar and both are certain to provoke considerable debate if any move is made to press either to final passage.

The recent election, coupled with the resignation of Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, will prove a vehicle for endless "campaign speeches" by senators on both sides. The "lame ducks" on both the Republican and Democratic side may be the center of a verbal storm as spokesmen for both parties seek to explain the downfall of the Republican "Old Guard" on November 7.

Senator-elect Thomas F. Bayard of Delaware was the only one of the new members of the upper chamber chosen at the recent election with an unquestioned right to a seat at today's session. It was not believed that Senator-elect Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, would be seated, as under the election laws of his state, the vote cannot be canvassed officially until twenty days after the polls close and it is thought that Senator Rawson, who Brookhart replaces, will continue to serve until the end of the special session.

FOOD COST INCREASED 2 PER CENT IN OCTOBER.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The cost of living is on the rise again in the face of approaching winter.

On top of an increase in wholesale prices, the department of labor announced today that retail food prices increased two per cent during October.

Ran Into Port Ewen Bus.

A boatman who had acquired too much joy water on Mill street Sunday night tried to cross Broadway that evening and fell against the running board of one of the Port Ewen busses. He was picked up unconscious and rushed to the Kingston City Hospital, and at 4 o'clock this morning was taken to his home after his wounds had been dressed. He was badly cut about the face.

Marshall to Show Skill.

The chess players of the Kingston Club, of which there are a number, will be out in force this evening when Frank J. Marshall, champion chess player of the United States, will be at the club and meet some of the skilled players, besides exsides explaining problems and various moves. Mr. Marshall has met Capablanca and other famous chess players of the world.

Mrs. Louisa Bailey of 622 Broadway gave a venison dinner to Casper Bailey and family and a number of friends Sunday evening at her home.

FIRST LAUZANNE CONFERENCE DECISION IS FOR SECRECY

Curzon, Poincare and Mussolini Agree to Hold Two Private Sessions Daily and to Censor all Press Dispatches—Turks Maintain Firm Attitude.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lauzanne, Switzerland, Nov. 20.—Decisions in the Near East peace conference which began here today, are to be worked out under the veil of secret diplomacy. The triumvirate—Lord Curzon, of England; Premier Poincare of France and Premier Mussolini of Italy—have agreed upon "secret covenants secretly arrived at."

Two secret sessions of the parley will be held daily.

A quasi-censorship has been established. All press despatches will be scanned by an Allied control committee.

Luzanne, Switzerland, Nov. 20.—With the Allies in accord, but with Italy maintaining an aggressive attitude in line with the Nationalist policy of the Fascisti government now in control at Rome, the Near East peace conference finally got under way today to frame a treaty to take the place of the discredited treaty of Sevres.

The honor of presenting the Allies' peace program fell to Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary and head of the British delegation. It consists of 15 points divided into two sections. The first ten treat with political and territorial matters in Turkey and Thrace, the last five deal with financial and economic matters.

Premier Mussolini of Italy, who compelled Lord Curzon and Premier Poincare of France to go to the village of Territet for a preliminary parley before he would come to Lauzanne, is going to play a dominant part in the conference, according to all indications. He insists that Italy be treated as an equal with Britain and France and that "if there are going to be any melons cut, Italy must share on an equal basis with the other Allies."

Before today's preliminary session began there were informal conversations among the Allied statesmen with Lord Curzon, Premier Poincare and Premier Mussolini participating.

It is certain that the future status of the rich Turkish oil fields is going to play an important part in the deliberations for "petroleum" is now a magic word in international statesmanship and diplomacy.

The Turkish delegates took the background during the preliminary stage, but Ismet Pasha declared that they were not going to allow Turkish territory and concessions to be "peddled." Turkey, he said, will no longer tolerate the treatment of a vassal state.

That the American observers—Joseph C. Grew, minister to Switzerland; Richard Washburn Child, ambassador to Italy and Admiral Mark Bristol—are not going to play an entirely passive role is evident. It is even possible they may take part in some of the discussions. The keen interest displayed by the United States in the conference has aroused some of the European delegates considerably.

The big questions to be considered are:

1 — Internationalization of the Turkish straits—Dardanelles, Bosphorus and Sea of Marmora.

2—Realignment of the Turkish frontiers in both Asia Minor and Southeastern Europe.

3—Safeguards for Christians.

5—Turkish debts to foreign countries.

6—Turkey's demand for indemnity to Greece.

8—Future relations between Turkey and Russia.

The Russian delegates will not be allowed to participate in any discussions save those affecting the Turkish straits.

GOVERNOR PARKER ON KLAN'S TRAIL

Visits Washington to Secure Federal Aid in Running Down Perpetrators of Outrages Attributed to Klansmen.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Governor John M. Parker of Louisiana today came to Washington and appealed to the national government for federal operatives to go into his state to track down perpetrators of several outrages that have been attributed to members of the Ku Klux Klan.

Governor Parker made this unusual request to both President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty and followed it up with a long report on the political activities of the Klan in Louisiana which have been sufficiently widespread to nullify efforts of the state officers in the pursuit of malefactors.

CLEMENCEAU WORKS ON SPEECH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 20.—Despite his strenuous Sunday, when he placed a wreath upon the tomb of Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay and received many distinguished visitors, Georges Clemenceau, France's 81-year-old war premier, showed all the pep of youth today.

"The Tiger" was up at five o'clock and was hard at work upon the finishing touches of his first American speech about the time that most New Yorkers were turning over in bed for just for one more wink.

Fortified with a breakfast of onion soup and hard-boiled eggs and with a pitcher of cold tea at his side, the aged statesman sat down to his task in the study that had been allotted to him in the home of his host—Charles Dana Gibson.

The French war premier told Stephen Bonsal, who is acting as sort of a liaison officer between him and the American reporters, that he was feeling fine.

As soon as he was out of bed, he began vigorously on his setting up exercises, a practice that has kept in good health for 20 years. Then came breakfast at six.

The first caller of the morning was Whitney Warren, famous architect, who has been interested in French relief. The second visitor was Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. P. Morgan who spends much of her time in France. They chatted together for some time.

Then M. Clemenceau prepared to go to the Ritz-Carlton for luncheon, given by friends.

Later in the day the "Tiger" will visit Metropolitan Opera House to test the acoustic properties. He will deliver his first address on French affairs there tomorrow night.

Catholic Daughters of America Social.

The Catholic Daughters of America will hold a social on Thursday evening, November 23, at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 8 o'clock. The guests of the evening will be the Rev. Father Cushman of St. Joseph's Church and the Rev. Father Scully of St. Mary's Church. The reception will be in honor of the officers for 1922, including the district deputy, Mrs. Howley. All members of Court Santa Maria are invited.

P.-T. A. No. 6 Meeting.

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 6 will hold its regular meeting, Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 oclock at the school. Special business will be transacted at this time. Miss Riseley will give a report of the state convention.

Girls' Friendly Dance.

The Girls' Friendly Society will hold a dance Tuesday evening, November 28, at the Holy Cross parish house. Balfe's orchestra will furnish the music.

CENTRAL TRADES COUNCIL FAIR OPENS THIS EVENING

The annual fair and bazaar of the Central Trades Council will open this evening in Mann's Hall on lower Broadway. Owing to the absence of Mayor Crane from the city and the death of a relative of President R. C. Dittus of the common council, Judge Harry Schirick will officially open the fair.

A prize dance will be held every evening, the winners of which will compete for a grand prize, emblematic of the championship of Ulster county, on the closing night.

Another feature of great interest to the ladies will be the popularity contest, a free-for-all affair, in which a beautiful pearl necklace will be awarded to the winner.

Melvin Post has charge of a contest in which a bicycee is the prize.

The musical part of the program will be under the direction of the local Musicians' Union. Balfe's orchestra will be the opening attraction. The Imperial orchestra will furnish the artists for Tuesday and Wednesday. Announcements of the attractions for the following evening will be made later.

Refreshments will be served throughout the week, prepared on one of Barth Company's famed cookers, which the firm has placed at the disposal of the fair committee.

NEW POLISH HALL IS OPENED

With Impressive Religious Ceremonies—Parade a Colorful Event —Many Visiting Societies.

Sunday morning appropriate exercises opened the new National Polish Hall on Delaware avenue and a large concourse of people assembled to celebrate the occasion. A high Mass was celebrated at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by the Rev. Ignacy Byaldyga, pastor of the church. The church was taxed to its capacity, appropriate music was rendered and the opening services were very impressive. Father Byaldyga delivered the sermon.

During the church services societies from neighboring cities were gathering at the church and were ready to parade, following the Mass. The parade was very large and presented an unusual sight, with the different societies dressed in full regalia. They marched from the hall to the West Shore and return. Girls from the parish carried large American and Polish flags. Societies were present from Poughkeepsie, Florida, N. Y., Hudson, Glasco, East Kingston and this city. A large crowd reviewed the parade. The Kingston City Band led one of the Polish Societies and the Kosciusko Band led the Aid Society. The Glasco Band was also in line, leading the St. Liberata Society of East Kingston. The Sick and Aid Society of St. Peter's Church, this city, and the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception Church were also in line.

On the return to the hall, Adam Dudyk, president, called the meeting. The hall, although not completely equipped, but with the many decorations, presented a beautiful appearance. Father Byaldyga blessed the hall with solemn and impressive services. The first speaker was the Polish Consul, who was said to be a great orator. He spoke in Polish. Former Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., was the next speaker, and he congratulated the society on its wonderful work and expressed his opinion as to its further success being very bright. Mayor Crane was unable to be present and he was represented by Frederick Stephan, who congratulated the Polish people on their accomplishments and voiced the opinion that the whole city was proud of their achievements. Father Byaldyga then spoke in English and Polish and his remarks were loudly applauded. The closing address was given by W. A. Mazur, who spoke in Polish. During the program the Polish Band rendered a number of selections and young members of the church played violin selections and sang songs.

Seated on the stage besides the speakers were the presidents of all the societies, a number of Father Byaldyga's former parishioners of New York city, N. D. J. Murphy and prominent citizens of Poughkeepsie, which included former City Judge Edward Conger. Following the services a delightful dinner was served to the speakers and the guests.

Fire at Ball Park.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 20.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the grand stand at Eclipse Park, home of the Louisville American Association Baseball Club, early today, causing a loss estimated at $50,000.

THE GARDEN AT CEDAR GROVE

The garden at Cedar Grove was one of those treated of in Mrs. Francis J. Higginson's paper before the Garden Club. If it she said:

On the Albany turnpike, just within the limits of the village of Catskill, lies the estate known as Cedar Grove, with its Colonial house and garden on the east side of the road.

The present proprietor is Theodore A. Cole, son of Thomas Cole, who founded the Hudson River School of Landscape Painters. This artist, wandering through the country, was attracted by the charm of Cedar Grove and sought an introduction to its owner, John Alexander Thompson, who had built the house in 1815. A friendship thus begun, led later to the marriage of Thomas Cole to Mr. Thompson's niece, the beautiful Maria Bartow, who with her sisters inherited the estate on the death of their uncle.

The beautiful doorway of the old house has welcomed many famous artist friends of Thomas Cole, as Huntington Durand, Church, Innes, McEntee, Crospey and others, and also those famous in different walks in life: Bishops Horatio Potter, Doane and Seymour, Morse, the inventor, and Hayes the explorer, William Cullen Bryant and Charles Dudley Warner and many others.

Extending the length of the house which faces south, is a broad piazza over which climb huge wisterias, honeysuckle and clematis, and in front of which are Missouri apples, ball oleanders and lemon verbenas. Across the driveway, opposite the doorway stands a massive wide-spreading thorn acacia tree which has weathered the storms of a hundred and fifty years, and from there stretches the old garden with its beds of flowers separated by grassy walks. In these beds, as the seasons succeed one another, blossom crocuses, hyacinths, daffodils, poppies, roses, lemon lillies, fraxinela, larkspur, hollyhocks, valerian, china asters and many another old fashioned flower, and to these have been added without interruption to the general harmony such novelties as pyrathrum, fringed petunias and the tall and beautiful autumn anemome.

The arrangement of the flowers shows that an artist's judgment has influenced the development of the garden, although the artist himself may have had nothing to do with the actual planting. That Thomas Cole did, however, take more than casual pleasure in the making of a garden is shown by a passage in his diary describing the ideal color chart for placing flowers: "Blue flowers," he says, "are very fine in the bright sunlight, while in the shade they are of little value. Orange-colored or red flowers, on the contrary, are disagreeable in the glaring sun. They are most beautiful in the shade, which they illuminate with a pleasant glow. In gardening, I would place blue flowers in the light, perhaps intermingling with pink and delicately tinted ones; in the shade, scarlet and orange; in places intermediate, crimson and rich purple flowers." Monet's garden was one of his finest color compositions and Thomas Cole was earlier in the field as a painter working with flowers instead of pigments.

To the right of the flower-beds at Cedar Grove, extends the lawn with shrubbery and banks of flowers in the background. Through the garden runs a gravel path which finally, through trees and shrubs, leads over a rustic bridge to Thomas Cole's later studio.

From the west end of the plazza, looking across century-old lilacs and syringas, may be seen the range of the Catskill Mountains. To the east of the house, passing lilies of the valley, yellow roses, iris, peonies, marigolds and chrysanthemums, according to the season one comes to the first studio of the famous artist, in which were painted other well-known pictures, The Voyage of Life, The Course of the Empire and the Cross and the World Series, and his Dream of Arcadia, which was purchased by the Old American Art Union. Beyond this building, extending to the banks of the Hudson river, is a fine bit of woodland containing oaks, hickories and pines. Surrounding the Cole dwelling on three sides are orchards which are gardens of bloom in spring and heavily fruited in autumn, adding to the richness of color and variety of effect in the place as a whole.

The present mistress of the old garden is Mrs. Florence Cole Vincent, a great, great niece of "Uncle Sandy" who laid it out, and granddaugher of Mrs. Maria Bartow Cole, to whose interest and loving care the garden owed much of its early development, and who was courted by her artist lover among its blossoms. To Mrs. Vincent's devotion and care is due its present order and beauty and also the remarkable quality of its color.

GRAND JURY GETS HALL-MILLS CASE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 20.—The same sort of jury that sits on cracker boxes in country stores and passes on daily event, met today in the Somerset county court house to investigate the murder of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and his pretty choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, with whom he was infatuated.

There are twenty-three farmers, rural merchants and housewives in the jury. It will be a jury moving to double time for by the end of the week it will have heard fifty-two witnesses

The foremost question is whether or not the evidence warrants the indictment of a woman and two men declared to have done the murder.

Curious visitors to the court house were greeted by the sight of New Jersey police on guard with pistols hanging from their belts. The blue and khaki uniform of the troopers stood out in bold relief against the court house's white marble

The first witness was A. J. Cardinal, a New Brunswick newspaper man, finder of the letters that lay near the murder spot.

The grand jury is hearing evidence in a room whose walls have been hung with charts, blue prints and sketches illustrating the murder, its locality and its phases.

Ray Schneider, who with Pearl Bahmer, found the bodies, was taken before the grand jury under guard soon after the panel met. Special Prosecutor Mott repeated that he was not promising any indictments.

"It's up to the jury," he said. 'All I can do is present my case"

Schneider was given an armful of photographs to identify Waiting to follow him as a witness were Mr and Mrs Edward Striker, from whose home he telephoned to the police of his finding the bodies.

Three of the state troopers were detailed to guard the jury room. The blinds of the chamber were drawn to prevent the curious from peeping Groups of idle thrill hunters from all over the countryside were herded across the street where they watched each proceeding minutely. No one was permitted near the jurors' room unless it was in connection with official business.

ST. STEPHEN'S, 53; ALBANY STATE, 0

St Stephen's College continued on its road to small college football fame last Saturday afternoon by handing the Albany State College a 53 0 trimming at Annandale The collegians from Albany were not in it at all while Major Prince left his first team in the fray and in fact could do nothing against the second team when they were substituted for the varsity in the second half The varsity scored the entire 53 points in the first half and were then given a rest while their smaller brothers held the visitors to a tie in the second half Deloria, who played fullback for the Annandalians, was the star of the game because of his wonderful forward passing game. It is very unlikely that any of the larger colleges have turned out a player this season who can excel this man in the above mentioned art as time after time with the aid of the first ends passes were thrown and completed for a distance of from thirty to forty yards and at one stage of the game these so-called small college players completed a pass for a distance of fifty years, which is a feat any large college would be proud to boast of. Gruver, former K H S player, played a sterling game at center both on the offensive and the defensive. St. Stephen's will play Providence College at Providence, Rhode Island, Thanksgiving Day before a crowd which it is estimated will average 20,000, and needless to say they expect to score a win and thus round out a very successful season.

W. D. HAWK'S LEG IS BROKEN WHEN HORSE FALLS

William Davis Hawk, of 145 Wall street, who is a dealer in electrical supplies at 286 Wall street, in the Advance building, is in the Kingston City Hospital, by reason of a broken bone in one of his legs near the ankle Sunday morning while horseback riding about 9.30 o'clock, his saddle horse slipped on the street pavement on Pearl street just after he had turned into it from Burgevin street near the residence of Delancey N Mathews. Mr. Hawk was thrown to the roadway and the horse fell upon him. He was taken into the residence of Mr. Mathews and Mrs. Hawk, who was notified by her husband over the telephone of his mishap, came with her automobile and took her husband to the Kingston City Hospital where Dr. G. W. Ross, the family physician, attended to Mr. Hawk's fracture. It was at first thought that there was double fracture but examination showed that only a small bone had been broken.

Mrs. Elmira Ellsworth is spending a few weeks with friends in Cambridge, Mass. S.

Avoid Breaks.

"You can often mend broken dishes and broken friendships, mend 'em pretty good," said a wise old woman; "but they are never just the same again—the place where the break was is sure to show. Anybody that cares as much for chiny and friendships as I do will be careful in handlin' both of 'em."

Darkness Was Night to Chickens.

Chickens are sensible the world around. Over in Australia and New Zealand, not long ago, they went to roost when a total eclipse of the sun came on. The eclipse started in the forenoon, and it doubtless seemed a short working day to the mystified opultry. Theirs not to question why, however, theirs but to go to rest as well-behaved and healthy fowls had been accustomed ever to do.

NATURALIZATION OF JAPS.

The decision of the Supreme Court that a Japanese is not eligible to citizenship in the United States is in harmony with both our statutes and majority sentiment in this country. The Court declares that "in all of the naturalization acts from 1790 to 1906 the privilege of naturalization was confined to white persons (with the addition in 1870 of those of African nativity and descent), although the exact wording of the various statutes were not always the same." Though admitting that they are not "white," the Japanese may well ask why black natives of the African continent are granted a privilege denied more intelligent persons from the island of Nippon? The only answer is to be found in the date—1870—of the "addition"—a time when majority sentiment in this country was markedly pro-negro as a result of the recent Civil War and the emancipation of the slaves. The Japanese can reasonably complain of inconsistency in this particular, but apart from this they have no case, all the rulings being against them. With the one notable exception, the intent of all the statutes is to confine naturalization to white persons.

The Court's decision will be even more popular now than it would have been in the past. There is now a strong and growing sentiment against unrestricted immigration and naturalization, accompanied with regret that reform in this direction was so long delayed. The opposition to any but white naturalizations has an economic basis especially on the Pacific coast, as well as a basis in popular prejudice against the darker races. This prejudice is a fact that cannot be ignored because it is rooted in nothing less than the barrier erected by nature itself in order to prevent the several grand divisions of the human race from being merged into one. Though the Japanese government may complain, the Court's decision will be sustained by the people of this country.

CONSULS ARE SUPPORTED.

The United States Government is determined to stand behind its diplomatic representatives abroad so long as they conduct themselves properly, regardless of what other governments may say or do. Last August the American consulate at Newcastle, England, was closed by this government because the British authorities had seen fit to complain of the activities of the American representatives in securing cargoes for American ships. The State Department immediately instituted an investigation of its own to determine the truth of the charges. Ambassador Harvey and Consul General Skinner at London each made separate reports, and a special agent was sent from Washington to make a third investigation. The British foreign office was invited to present all the evidence in its possession, tending to show improper conduct on the part of the American consuls. The three reports agree that no substantiation could be obtained, and the State Department has consequently notified London that the Newcastle consulate will remain closed until such time as the British government has withdrawn its charges without condition.

The incident serves to show to what lengths foreign interests will go to meet the menace of American competition in ocean trade. The impulse behind the British protest was the desire to offset the success that is attending the efforts of American shippers to capture their fair share of world commerce. Of course it is the business of American consular officers to aid our ships in every proper way, just as it is their business to assist every other American conduct on the part of the American foreign interest and the fact that what they have done in this instance has attracted the attention of the British government is proof of their energy and ability.

The election returns in a number of States provide basis for "wet" jubilation, yet there were results in two States of a character to bring down a peg or two the hopes of enthusiastic anti-prohibitionists. The result in California has been more or less reasonably explained away. Like the bootleggers, the California grape growers have made fortunes out of prohibition. After expecting to be ruined they found to their great joy that the enormous demand for their wine-grapes enabled them to multiply their former prices by five. Though this may dispose of California, there remains the startling fact that Ohio gave a majority of 187,000 against the proposition to legalize beer and wine, notwithstanding that in 1914 a State-wide prohibition amendment to the Ohio constitution was defeated by 83,000 votes, the same amendment losing again in 1915 and a third time in 1917. The wets counted on supposedly revolting Ohio, yet the drys carried the State by a great majority. The former have won notable victories, but Ohio reminds them that the time for "joy unconfined" is not yet.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Is there any such bird as a Booby?

2. Is there any benefit in the rattlesnake?

3. What is the average size and age of the following fishes: buffalo fish, spoonbill cat, carp and catfish?

Answers In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Is it true birds will leave a place where sheep are kept?

In a sense, yes; not that sheep themselves are foes of birds. But sheep are close eaters, nibbling not only the grasses of their pasture, but much of the brushy growth cleaning this up to a height of say fully three feet. This robs many species of birds both of nesting sites, and of places where they can hide from foes.

2. Is artesian water good for flowers

Hard to answer positively as the quality of the water might vary considerably in different artesian wells, according to the kind of soil and rock the water drained through. On general principles water from sources constantly replenished from rain water would be more nourishing to plants, owing to elements it keeps in solution, taken from the air.

3. Are caterpillars poisonous?

Only a few kinds, at least in North America, less than two dozen having any irritating or nettling characters. Where they do "sting" it is not as bees do, by injecting a poison from internal glands; but by shedding spiny hairs which penetrate human skin and produce irritation. This irritation is not only mechanical, due to barbs on the hairs; but to a poison in the special "nettling hairs," which is thought to work loose into the human blood. The io, flannel, and brown-tail caterpillars are examples.

COUNTY SOCIETY ANNUAL MEETING

Officers Elected—Membership Now 428—7 Died During Year—Banquet Set for January 27.

The seventh annual meeting of The Ulster County Society was held in Stewart's Restaurant, Park Place, New York, on Saturday, November 17, and was preceded by a luncheon. The meeting was well attended. Treasurer Holley R. Cantine submitted his annual report, showing all bills paid, with balance on hand of $32.00, was read and approved.

Secretary Joseph Drake reported the death of the following members the past year: Benjamin F. Crump, John C. Oliver, Edward D. Brower, Hon. George Washburn, Hon. Martin S. Decker, Daniel F. Finger, and William R. Crump, who was the society's first treasurer and one of its organizers.

A number of new members were elected and the present membership is 428.

The nominating committee reported in favor of the election of the following officers:

C. J. Curtin of High Falls, honorary president; William Winter of Rondout, honorary vice-president; Macdonald DeWitt of Kingston, president; Lewis A. Alliger of Kingston, vice-president; Holley R. Cantine of Saugerties treasurer; Judge A. T. Clearwater, historian, and Joseph Drake, secretary. The report was adopted and the secretary directed to cast ballot for the election.

William Winter, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported having made arrangements with the Waldorf-Astoria for the seventh annual banquet which will be held in this well known hotel on Saturday evening, January 27, 1923, with a reception preceding the dinner. Oscar Tschirky, the manager of this hotel, is a member of the Ulster County Society, and has a summer home between New Paltz and Highland. He has promised to take a personal interest in the dinner and no doubt the affair will even eclipse the former dinners given by the society.

A communication was read from the Tuberculosis Hospital of Kingston, requesting the society to make a donation toward a radio outfit for the camp. It was referred to the finance committee and it was the sense of the meeting that the members could donate as individuals if they wished.

President DeWitt presided and speeches were made by the honorary president, the Rev. A. A. Walker, Elbert DuBois, J. Ward Follette, and others.

The meeting then adjourned.

What is a merchant's job?

Says Webster: "Merchant, n One who sells goods."

Say we: The last function of the real merchant is to sell. Primarily he is a buyer, representing his community.

In our complex society no one could safely buy for himself in the open market. Buying at large requires the economist's knowledge of price movements, the scientist's power to detect adulteration, the psychologist's ability to sense fraud.

There the real merchant comes in.

This store carefully guards its customers against unfair prices and poor stuff by buying expertly. We buy Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes, for example. That name suggests the high standard this store labors to maintain.

Having bought, we sell, but the margin called profit is not the yield of clever salesmanship, but the wages of a careful buyer—for our neighbors.

BACON, STAR OF "LIGHTNIN'," DIES

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Funeral services for Frank Bacon, the famous American actor who died here yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow by the Church of Christ, Scientist, following a memorial service at the Blackstone Theatre where the body will lie in state.

Former Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis and other celebrities are expected to attend the memorial services.

After the memorial and funeral services, the body will be placed in a vault in a Chicago cemetery where it will remain until removed to the old home of the Bacons in Mountain View, California.

Death of Mr. Bacon, star in the drama "Lightnin' ", which he had written himself and which he had played nearly two thousand performances, was due to high blood pressure, heart trouble and hardening of the arteries. He died with a smile on his lips and with the arms of "Mother" Bacon, his wife around him.

New York, Nov. 20.—In twenty-four hours Broadway plunged from one extreme to another. Yesterday it was at the madcap height of laughter and joy at the 1922 ball of the Actors' Equity Association, the year's biggest carnival for the theatrical profession. Today it was immersed in mourning for one of the best pals an actor ever had—Frank Bacon.

Up and down the Rialto, where Lightnin' and his company paraded in August of last year, prior to going to Chicago, there passed actors on whose lips was the same greeting:

"Frank Bacon's dead. Too bad."

Followed the usual, "Do you remember," "Do you remember how he played 1,291 times at the Gaiety?" and "Do you remember how the mayor and all the producers helped him lead the parade down the Big Alley?"

The Equity Asosciation to a man—and a woman—mourned him. Much of the credit was given to Frank Bacon for its successful strike two years ago. He worked tirelessly for his fellow artists, speaking and soliciting funds.

One of Bacon's bitterest enemies paid him the most sincere of tributes. It was George M. Cohan, who fought the Equity and lost. Cohan, an abbot of the Friars, was toastmaster at a diner of 1,000 persons given to Kenesaw M. Landis, Will H. Hays and Augustus Thomas. Most of the guests were unaware of Lightnin's" death when Cohan received a telegram from Chicago announcing it.

"It is my sorrowful duty," said Cohan, "to ask you to pay final tribute to one of the finest actors the American stage ever has produced—Frank Bacon."

The Curtises' Grandmother

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mary Curtis gathered her children about her one morning and broke the news to them that their Grandmother Johnson had given up her home and was coming to live with them.

"And," she concluded, "I expect you to make the sacrifices cheerfully which this will entail. You must remember that your grandmother is well along in years, that a perpetual racket cannot help but annoy her at times and that she deserves the consideration due old age."

With such warnings ringing in their ears the Curtis youngsters, from seventeen-year-old Wayne down to six-year-old Janet, were decidedly on their best behavior the first few days after their grandmother's arrival. Although she was their mother's own mother her long residence in the West had meant that for years she had not seen them nor they her, and it must be admitted she did not turn out to be the feeble, white-haired old lady of their expectations.

Even her own daughter thought inwardly that her mother seemed no older than she had ten years ago, and the vision of a gentle, cooky-making, lace-capped grandmother for the children dimmed. Grandma Johnson didn't conform to type.

"She's certainly the spryest grandmother I ever saw," Mary's husband remarked one morning when she had been with them for a month, as he watched her tripping down the street to the Home for Aged Couples, where she already knew every one, from head gardener to grocery boy.

Mary shook her head. "If I'd heard of any of the old ladies passing on I should be worrying for fear she was making eyes at the widower," she said. "As it is——"

"You don't suppose old Caleb——"

"Old Caleb! John, are you out of your mind?"

"Well," said John stiffly, "she may be your mother, but she certainly spends considerable of her time gossiping over the fence with the old man, and if you cast your weather eye that way you'll observe that part of his garden near our fence is the only part that's been weeded for a month!"

But his wife turned away indignantly. She was truly fond of her mother, and had expected gladly to give up a valued room for her comfort and, in short, do everything to make her happy. Yet she was turning out to be as much a problem as one of the children. For example, take her daily hobnobbing with old Caleb.

Ever since the Curtises bought their home their eccentric neighbor had been a thorn in their flesh. Not one of Wayne's carelessly flung balls had ever landed anywhere but among his choicest plants and done, according to Caleb, untold and irreparable damage. Old Caleb's hens, shut from his own preserves, had balked all Mary's efforts to make flower beds and all John's efforts to render fences impassable. Moreover, old Caleb had once been a sea captain and his soliloquies when things went wrong were such that Mary was forced to gather her brood indoors with closed windows. And, from the start, that same old Caleb and Grandma Johnson had been what Wayne called "real chummy."

One more illustration of the unforeseen disturbances the advent of her mother brought into the home. The youngsters were, to be frank, "jazz crazy," particularly Wayne and sixteen-year-old Phyllis. Their pocket money went for new records, although their father claimed it was extravagance to buy new ones. One was indistinguishable from the other, and it would be no loss musically and a gain economically to use the same one until it wore out.

Mary had hoped to make an excuse of Grandma Johnson to lessen up on the phonograph. She had fancied herself speaking gently to them of her nerves and need for quiet and rest. But from the day she came upon Wayne swinging his grandmother across the rugless floor and admonishing her "to (two-step or pivot the term as she pleased, but not to forget that toddling was absolutely a thing gone by and the neck hold was going," she abandoned that cherished hope as vain.

Grandma made a great point of her "pet philanthropy," which signified weekly visits to the home for the aged couples, bearing a basket of doughnuts and a few magazines. Mary felt that very likely she brought a real breath of cheer into the place and grew to count upon the home's visiting hours as quiet moments in the week when her mother was innocently occupied.

But there came a time when Mary felt that to ship grandma back West would bring the household a very real relief. Old Caleb had taken to running over evenings and occupying the porch with grandma. This resulted in driving Phyllis and her callers indoors, which was the step prior to starting the phonograph and driving Mr. and Mrs. Curtis upstairs.

Then one day when grandma had gone to the home she failed to return for supper. Mary was a trifle alarmed, but it had happened once before and the matron had invited her to stay to tea and John promised to run over immediately after the meal if she had not appeared.

It did not prove necessary. Just as dessert was being served the front door opened and grandma entered, fluttered over to the table and sank into her chair. She had the air of one who had not come to stay, but had paused in passing.

"Where have you been, mother?" asked Mary brightly. "All of us were worried to pieces."

"Well," said Grandma, slowly, "I've been—and got married."

"Married!"

"Not old Caleb?"

Grandma snorted. "That old fossil! Why, he's decrepit, he is! Well, I've been to the parsonage and that nice old Reverend Samuels married me—"

"Married you—why, he's got one wife!"

This time it was John who won grandma's scornful look.

"I'm married to Joe Whipple, superintendent of the home for aged cripples, and I'm to have a whole suite and—"

"Joe Whipple!" Mary could not refrain from interrupting. "But, mother, he's so much younger!"

"Seven years eight months and twenty-three days," came back Grandma Johnson's prompt reply, "but that's fifteen years older'n I feel, so I figure we're about even!"

SMALLEST OF LARGE TRIBE

Mouse Deer Tells All About Himself, Principally for the Benefit of the Smaller Readers.

I am a little mouse deer. I am the tiniest little grown-up deer on earth, like a fairy deer from fairyland. But I am no fairy. I'm as real as you. My wife and children and aunts and uncles and cousins and I all live in India and in some of the islands nearby. We like warm countries and thick jungles where we can hide.

The natives of India call us kanchil, which means "little." We're little, but oh my! Little fellows need to be extra smart to make up for not being big and strong. My little brown legs are no thicker around than a lead pencil, but you ought to see them run! If anything chases me too closely, why, I just lie down and pretend I'm dead and fool 'em proper.

My own grandfather never grew to be any bigger than an 18-inch-long rabbit, and my wife's last pair of twins (we're usually born in twos) were about the size of a rat.

I have no antlers on my forehead to fight with, like my big, giant deer cousins in the zoo. But my long, sharp front tooth is just as good for defending myself. Deer me! I haven't told you the color of my suit—brown, with a white chin, a white tummy and dark brown legs.—Delineator.

Honesty.

It is not given to all to have genius—it is given to all to have honesty of purpose; an ordinary writer may have this in common with the greatest—that he may compose his work with sincere and distinct views of promoting truth and administering to knowledge. I claim this intention fearlessly for myself. . . . And if, contrary to my most solemn wishes, and my most thoughtful designs, any one of my writings can be shown, by dispassionate argument to convey lessons tending to pervert the understanding and confound the eternal distinction between right and wrong; I will do my best to correct the error by stamping on it my own condemnation, and omitting it from the list of those it does not shame me to acknowledge.—Bulwer Lytton.

Lignite a Member of Coal Series.

Lignite is a variety of coal, and although a mineral substance, is of vegetable origin. It is of a brown color, soft and brittle. It occurs west of the Mississippi river, where it is mined in North Dakota, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico. While lignite is of considerable value for warming dwellings, it is not suitable for use in steam boilers or for other manufacturing purposes, because of impurities present which prevent it from producing so intense a heat as anthracite or bituminous coal.

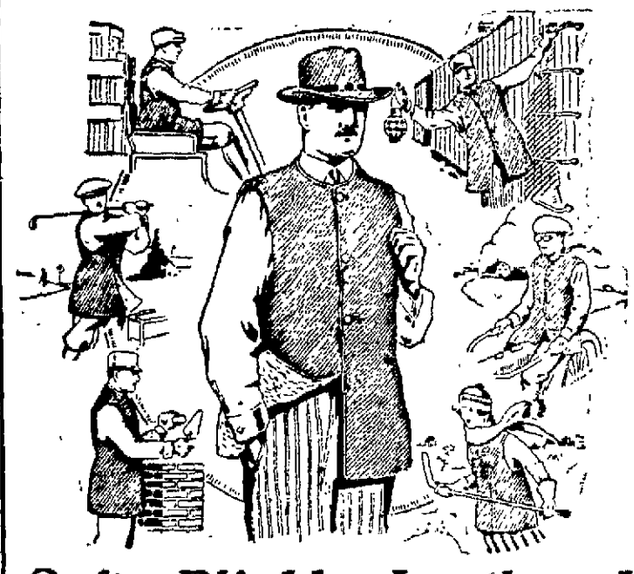

Oath Taken by Young Athenians.

The oath of the Ephebi provided that the youths in question swear never to disgrace their arms or to desert their comrades; to fight to the last in defense of their country, its altars and its hearths; to leave their country not in a worse but a better state than they found it; to obey the magistrates and the laws; to resist the attempts to subvert the institutions of Attica, and to respect the religion of their forefathers. To this Plutarch adds that they would regard "every country as Attic soil where wheat and barley, vines and leaves could grow."

Patriotic Recitations.

The Woman was visiting her friend, the kindergarten teacher, who told her of a patriotic morning they recently had. One youngster wanted to sing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," then another suggested "The Star-Spangled Banner." The climax came when a little tot volunteered to recite the "Salute to the Flag." This is what she said: "I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the republic for which it stands, one naked individual, with liberty and justice for all."

People Indifferent to Time.

The isle where time is forgotten is Tubuai, Austral group, about 200 miles south of Tahiti. The entire social and industrial program of the people of the island appears to be composed of eating, sleeping, talking and fishing. Taro planting, the basis of the South sea food, poi, and fishing are the main occupations. The population of Tubuai is only several hundred most of them being of pure Polynesian blood, with some admixture of Caucasian and Chinese.

BILLIE BROWNIE'S CHATS

"Good-morning," said Billie Brownie to the African Clawed Frog in the zoo.

"Good-morning," said the African Clawed Frog, shaking one of his legs at Billie Brownie. Of course, as you all know very well by this time, Billie Brownie had been given permission by Mother Nature to go and call on her various children and to understand their talk.

"I'm from the southern part of Africa," said the African Clawed Frog. "Of course, from my name you could tell I was from Africa.

"Or, at least, that I had come from Africa in the first place, and that Africa is the family home country, as I might say.

"I am a dark-spotted gray frog; if you look at my back and if you look at my underneath parts you will see that I am a much lighter gray.

"I never leave the water. That is the principal thing about me.

"And, as they know that here in the zoo, they give me a tank to swim around in, and they don't think that I'm going to want a log out of the water, or anything like that.

"And it isn't stubborn for me to want what I do. I would not be able to live out of the water."

"Well, I'm glad to have had your [illegible] Clawed Frog," said Billie [illegible] "And I notice that you [illegible] on your feet, and so I [illegible] is why you are called a [illegible] frog."

[illegible] yes,' said the African [illegible] Frog. "How very forgetful of [illegible]

"Well, I should have remembered [illegible] said that but at least you re[illegible] of it, Billie Brownie.'

Then [illegible] the Brownie went to call on some of the snakes.

"I'm the King Snake," said a gray and black snake. "My home used to be in the southern part of this country, and that is where the family home still is. You can find us in Southern places from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific.

"Yes, the family are scattered about.

"We kill other snakes. And the poison from other snakes cannot hurt us. We are 'immune,' as they say, to all poisons of other snakes, which means that we cannot be poisoned."

"I'm the Black Snake," said another snake. This one was long and thin.

"Yes," continued Black Snake, "I'm from the eastern part of the country, and I destroy harmful creatures who'd hurt the farmer's crops.

"It is very nice that, in this zoo, they have a sign telling of us and of the good we do, for all of us you are visiting this morning are among those who help agriculture."

"Nice to Meet a Friend"

"Isn't that a pretty big thing to help?"

"Yes, and you can call on Mr Fox Snake and Gopher Snake, and Chicken Snake, and Bull Snake, and Milk Snake, and Pine Snake, and Corn Snake, and Coachwhip Snake."

"To me," said Billie Brownie, "it has always seemed remarkable how much snakes can do, and yet they spend all their lives in crawling.

"It makes me admire them for the things they can accomplish, and yet they can only crawl.

"They cannot walk, they cannot run. They cannot fly. Yet they do good; they're patient when suffering. They have many good qualities.

"Of course, there are bad snakes, too, but there are bad and good of everything pretty nearly, I suppose.

"Anyway, I think you snakes have stood for a lot of abuse when you don't deserve it.

"For so many judge all snakes as bad, when they aren't at all. I think it is a nice way, too, that they tell in this zoo of the snakes who are a help to farmers and to people."

"I like to hear such talk," said Black Snake. "Truly it is nice to meet a friend."

"Well, I'm your friend," said Billie Brownie. "But now I must be off. I shall come and see you again."

"Do," said Mr. Black Snake, making a funny swishing sound which, in snake talk, meant, "You'll always be welcome."

WAYS WITH VEGETABLES

This is the season of the year when egg plant abounds. There are various ways of preparing this tasty vegetable, the following are a few:

Fried Egg Plant.—Pare and cut in thin slices. Pile the slices on a large plate and sprinkle each with salt. Cover with another plate and put a heavy weight on top. Let stand for an hour or two. Remove the weight, rinse each slice in cold water, wipe dry, dip in beaten egg, then in seasoned crumbs and fry until brown. For fritters dip the slices in a fritter batter and fry in deep fat.

Stuffed Egg Plant.—Cut a large egg plant in two and scoop out the pulp leaving the shell half an inch thick. Cut the pulp fine and add an equal quantity of crumbs. Season with salt, pepper and a very little sugar. Cook in a frying pan, using enough butter to keep from burning for about ten minutes. Fill the shell with the cooked mixture, dot with butter, sprinkle with crumbs and bake brown.

Egg Plant Stuffed With Nuts.—Boil the whole plant until tender, then cut a slice off the top, scoop out the pulp, chop fine, add a cupful of chopped hickory nuts, a tablespoonful of bread crumbs, salt and pepper to taste, two eggs well beaten and a pinch of sugar. Mix thoroughly, fill the shell and bake until brown.

Salsify.—Scrape, cut into inch lengths and throw into cold water with a tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar added. Boil until tender drain and serve in a rich cream sauce.

Escalloped Corn and Tomatoes.—Put a layer of corn, then a layer of tomatoes, buttered crumbs and seasoning in layers in a baking dish. Finish with buttered crumbs, using an equal amount of corn and tomatoes. Bake until the crumbs are brown.

Cucumbers With Sour Cream.—Slice cucumbers after peeling and let them stand until well wilted in salted water. Then drain, wipe on a cloth and serve with sour cream, salt and pepper to season.

Reliance satisfies that coffee appetite

Reliance Coffee has that rich heavy breakfasty-odor that makes you hungry the moment you sniff it. A smell that pours right out into the cup as taste!

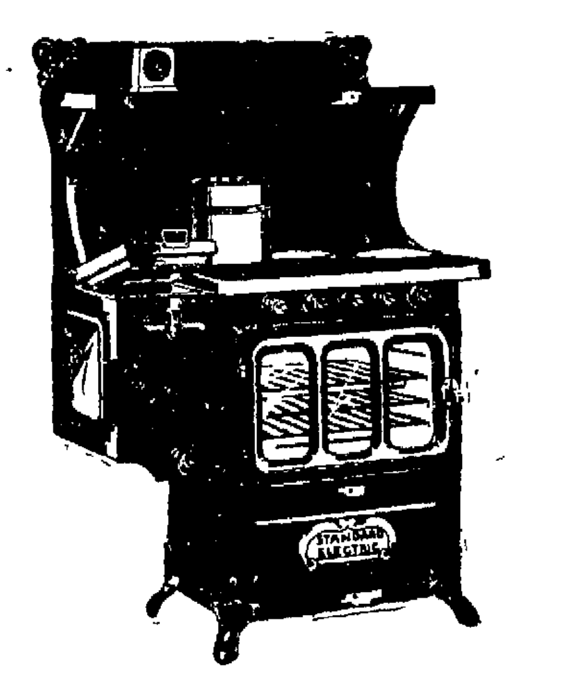

No other coffee satisfies your coffee appetite so completely because Reliance really tastes as good as it smells.

Have your grocer bring you a trial pound; then make it this way:

One heaping tablespoonful for each cup and one for the pot. Have the pot hot. Put the dry coffee in the bottom of the pot and pour on actual boiling water. Set on stove and let come to a boil for two minutes. Remove and stir in the top grounds. Just before serving add two tablespoonsful of cold water. Serve Promptly.

Reliance Coffee is sold only in sealed oval canisters, bearing our name. Wm. T. Reynolds & Co., Inc., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Confession of a Married Woman

A married woman recently confided to a married man that the thing that troubles her most and that rested most heavily on her mind was—cooking. She said that "I have to cook everything by guess work."

Our advice to her would be to try a Combination Coal and Electric Stove—which can be seen in our store on the second floor in the stove department. This range can be regulated to any degree of heat. A lady can spend the afternoon out and come home to a thoroughly cooked dinner without any anxiety whatever.

MERCANTILE FIRE RATE REDUCED

Improvements to Fire Alarm System That Brought About Lower Tariff from Underwriters.

Engineer Kelly of the Underwriters' Association of New York state made an inspection of the fire alarm system of the city on November 14 and as a result of the conditions which he found the state underwriters have informed the fire commissioners that they will send the new tariff to the printer, giving credit of five cents in the flat mercantile base rate as previously agreed.

For some time the fire commissioners have been working toward a reduction in insurance rates through the installation of a modern and up-to-date fire alarm system. The work of installing the system has been going on for some time and much of the work has been completed. The Jansen avenue building which houses the fire alarm system was highly complimented by Engineer Kelly on his inspection trip and the improvements which have already been completed have caused the board of underwriters to feel that the entire system will shortly be completed and have therefore promised to reprint the tariff for the city, reducing the basis rate used in mercantile schedule ratings from the present figure of 44c to 39c.

The Gamewell Fire Alarm and Telegraph system which has been installed has been described in detail in The Freeman at the time the Jansen avenue building was completed. Since that time many improvements have been made. At present there is one complete underground circuit. Every box along Broadway from Rondout to and including box 84 at the corner of Clinton avenue and Pearl street is connected with this circuit. The present Broadway circuit will shortly be enlarged to include the boxes at the corner of Main and Fair streets, Wall and John streets, and North, Front and Fair streets.

Several of the boxes will be moved so as to make them more accessible and others will be added where necessary. When the improvements are finally completed Kingston will have one of the finest equipped fire alarm systems, work having so far advanced at the present time that the state underwriters feel justified in making the reduction which was promised some time ago.

ELKS' FORMAL DANCE FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8

The pre-holiday formal dance, which is to be given on the evening of Friday, December 8th, by Kingston Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, in their home on Fair street, promises to be a delightful social event, and pleasurable in every way. The Imperial Orchestra will furnish the music for dancing, which is an assurance of a program of excellent numbers. All members and friends of the Elks are cordially invited, and are asked to send in their names, to any member of the committee, not later than December 5th, so that every detail for their pleasure may be cared for, and cards of admission will be mailed to them immediately. The committee arranging the dance is composed of James R. Higley, chairman; John P. Mack, secretary; Thomas J. Kennedy, N. D. J. Murphy, Walter Miller, Edgar T. Shultis, John T. Loughran, Albert Vogel, Charles J. Mullen, Charles Dunn, Harry Maisenhelder and Louis Maxon.

Joint Club Meeting.

The joint meeting of the Monday and Atharhacton Clubs will be held at the home of Mrs. Newton Fessenden, 98 Fair street, on Wednesday afternoon of this week at 4 o'clock, promptly.

ASHOKAN WATER LOWEST ON RECORD

At This Time of Year—Big City Likely to Have Short Supply Next Spring, Says Engineer.

Sunday's New York Times says:

The water in the Ashokan reservoir, main source of supply for New York city, was reported yesterday at the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity to be at the lowest point at this time of year since the reservoir was finised and put into operation in 1917. Old stone walls that marked the boundaries of once flourishing farms, old roads and other relics of human habitation before the flood behind Ashokan dam was let loose, are again coming to view as the great body of water slowly recedes.

The fact that the biggest reservoir of the New York city water supply now holds less than half its capacity of water is attributed by William W. Brush, chief engineer of the department, to the prolonged drought at the end of the summer and beginning of fall. According to Mr. Brush, the observations made for the department show that there are only 57,000,000,000 gallons of water in the reservoir, which has a capacity for 130,000,000,000. The Ashokan water, according to Mr. Brush, is being used at the rate of 1,000,000,000 gallons every three days.

It is possible, in the event of a winter of light precipitation, that the city would find itself facing a formidable task in supplying its inhabitants with water next spring, according to Mr. Brush. He suggested that if the Ashokan supply were not replenished during the next four of five months the fire department would have to actively resume pumping at all its reserve plans in Brooklyn and tap the waters of Croton to an even greater extent than now.

From Croton reservoir the city is now pumping 100,000,000 gallons a day. It was only last July at the end of a wet spell, that Croton reservoir was the scene of an overflow of nearly 3,000,000,000 gallons of water. It went tumbling over the 1,250 foot spillway of Cornell dam, making the 150 foot drop with a roar that was heard five miles away. Figured at the wholesale rate for water charged in New York city, it was estimated that the water, now needed as a reserve by the city, was wasted at the rate of $390,000 a day.

The condition now existing at Ashokan will be obviated, according to Mr. Brush, when the board completes the 18-mile tunnel through which the waters of the Schoharie river, dammed at Gilboa, are to be brought back to the Ashokan reservoir for storage. The Shandaken Tunnel is nearing completion, and the terms of the contract under which it is being constructed, contemplate that the Schoharie river shall be turned into Ashokan reservoir in 1924. The Gilboa dam will add about 22,000,000,000 gallons of water to the reserve supply.

CLOTHING FOR SMYRNA RELIEF WEDNESDAY

Last Wednesday, in spite of the unpleasant weather, there were a goodly number of gifts of clothing left at the City Hall for the Red Cross relief of the Smyrna disaster sufferers. The clothing was good, as was asked for, there being one contribution of newly made garments for children that was especially appreciated. On Wednesday of this week the room in the City Hall where the Kingston City Hospital Auxiliary does its work, will again be open, members of the Red Cross Production Committee being there from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., to receive, whole or neatly mended and clean, warm garments, all of which will be shipped directly after the middle of December.

PRICE OF RADIUM DROPS NEARLY HALF.

Makes Element Cheaper for Cancer Treatment.

Almost simultaneously with Cancer Week, according to the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, there has been a great drop in the price of radium; instead of the former price, $120,000 per gram (about 15.4 grains) of elemental radium, the price now advertised is $70,000 per gram.

The drop is caused by the discovery in Belgian Congo of an easily-worked pitchblende, a radium-bearing mineral. The American mines in the west, which still constitute the world's largest known source of radium, are closed at present.

"The Centipede" Finds A Buyer.

Mr. Osgood's new play, "The Centipede," which will be presented for the first time on any stage, at the St. John's Parish House on the evening of November 28th, and repeated on the 29th has been bought outright by The Eldridge Entertainment House, dramatic publishers with headquarters at Denver Col., and Franklin, Ohio. The book of the play will appear in print soon. A little poem entitled "You" by Cyril C. Sanders, a nephew of Mr. Osgood, runs like a thread throughout the play. The amateur rehearsal of "The Flapper's Strategy" which takes place in the second act, is interrupted by a most unexpected incident, which is almost melodramatic in its tenseness. How the old professor, by the aid of an ash tray, solves the mystery, is for the audience to discover.

PERFECT WASHING

THE EASY electric washing machine with its plunging vacuum cups, forces the suds thru every part of the fabric. There is no rubbing action or anything to wear the clothes. Gentle yet firm, suction and pressure movements clean perfectly.

Another great advantage of this washer is the ease with which it may be kept sweet and clean. After draining it out, simply wipe it off with a cloth.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long seges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

MUST PAY TAXES OF LEASED ROAD

Judge Hasbrouck Orders Delaware and Hudson to Pay Federal Income Tax Owed by the Rensselaer and Saratoga.

Deductions of money from the Delaware and Hudson Railroad dividend to meet federal income taxes owed by the Rensselaer and Saratoga Railroad was ordered Saturday by Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck at the special term of supreme court in this city. According to the order, the Delaware and Hudson Company, lessee of the Rensselaer and Saratoga Railroad, must file an income tax return with the collector of internal revenue at Albany based on the dividends payable to the stockholders of the Rensselaer and Saratoga Company.

The order ends for the time a four year effort by the Internal Revenue Bureau to collect an income tax on the dividends of the Rensselaer and Saratoga Company. Cyrus Durey, collector, armed with the treasury department ruling that a tax is payable on dividends, insisted that the payment be made.

When the ruling was brought to the attention of the executives of the Rensselaer and Saratoga Company, they put the matter up to the Delaware and Hudson Company. The latter company refused and the Rensselaer and Saratoga Company brought suit. It was in this action that Seymour Van Santvoord of Troy moved for judgment on the pleadings Saturday before Justice Hasbrouck.

Mr. Van Santvoord claimed that the Rensselaer and Saratoga Company was without funds and had no property. He pointed out that the Delaware and Hudson Company was the proper source to look for payment. Judge Noyes, general counsel of the Delaware and Hudson Company, opposed the motion.

Earl H. Gallup, assistant United States district attorney, appeared for Mr. Durey, who was implicated with the Delaware and Hudson Company as defendant. The order for judgment does not affect the government in an adverse way.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Alice Lake in "The Golden Gift" is the feature attraction at Keeney's tonight presenting a new kind of romance that fairly bristles with action. Johnny Hines in a Sewell Ford comedy "Torchy Takes a Chance" is a humorous tale of a young fellow's desperate love for a "flapper." Tuesday Bebe Daniels in "Nancy from Nowhere" the fanciful tale of an orphan who fell in love with a rich man's son and won him spite of all opposition. Starting Thursday the spectacle "Peacock Alley" starring Mae Murray, one of the most lavish screen productions of the year.

"The Fast Mail" at the Kingston Opera House tonight. Tuesday and Wednesday is from the old melodrama of the same name by Lincoln J. Carter. There's the most heroic sort of hero, a pretty girl, and a whole flock of villains, there are horse races, a gun fight, and a quiet happy ending.

Gareth Hughes in "I Can Explain" a tropic romance of business and bandits is the photoplay at the Auditorium tonight. Also Sunshine Sammy in "The Custard Nine" a comedy. Tuesday Art Acord in "Buffalo Bill."

ANNUAL FAIR AT RONDOUT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Tuesday at 12 o'clock noon the annual fair of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will be opened with the serving of the turkey dinner, and the fair will be brought to a close Wednesday evening with a turkey supper followed by a pleasing entertainment.

The decorations for the fair this year are very artistic and beautiful. Today many of the women met at the chapel to complete the work of getting the decorations arranged and the booths placed. This year's fair promises to be one of the best ever held by the ladies. All summer the members of the various booths have been busy getting ready.

PUREBRED FEMALES GAIN

Rapid Improvement of Live Stock Brought About by "Better Sires—Better Stock" Campaign.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When farmers adopt purebred sires to head their herds and flocks it is not long before the percentage of purebred females increases noticeably. This encouraging tendency toward more rapid improvement of live stock has been brought out by the United States Department of Agriculture in the "Better

Use of Purebred Females Is on Rapid Increase.

Sires—Better Stock" campaign. Of a total of more than 300,000 female animals listed by farmers who have agreed to keep nothing but purebred sires, more than 35 per cent are of pure breeding. On these farms scrubs have practically disappeared. For the larger animals the reports show that only 2.4 per cent of the females are scrubs and, of course, the males are of pure blood as that is the basis on which the farms are listed.

The poultry flocks owned by these farmers are particularly well bred, only 1-3 per cent of the female birds being listed as scrubs. More than 68 per cent of a total of 610,000 birds are entered on the list as standard-bred. Among the herds of swine there are very few scrub sows—only 1.1 per cent. Nearly two-thirds of them are purebred.

This federal-state effort to improve the live stock and poultry of the country has now brought in a membership campaign that represents nearly a million head of animals and poultry. Farmers who have become members have sent in interesting accounts of their experiences in improving their animals and their bank accounts. Other farmers who are taking part in the work are invited by the department to send in their individual experiences as well as those of community organizations engaged in the improvement of live stock. Definite facts and figures should be included whenever possible.

Big Disease Factors

Dirty cows, stables and utensils are the prime factors in distribution of pathogenic or disease producing organisms through milk. There are few dairy herds in which there is not a case or two of garget each year. In every case investigated during an Illinois survey the milk from cows having garget contained germs which cause stomach and intestinal diseases and general sickness.

Garget or mammitis is almost invariably induced by infections of the urinary tract and uterus. When a cow lies down in dirty stables and barnyards her udder rests on the ground and the germs become lodged in the teat openings where they multiply rapidly.

RIGHT FEEDING FOR CALVES

Number of Times a Day Varies With Different Dairymen—Temperature Is Important.

The number of times a day to feed the calf varies with the different dairymen. For the first three or four weeks some men feed the calves three times a day. This is an excellent practice, but many do not give proper attention to the temperature of the milk, particularly at noon. This milk is often given cold and it would be far better to feed only twice a day and have the milk at proper temperature than to feed three times a day and have noon milk cold.

Value of Protein Feed.

Realizing the value of more protein in the feed mixture for dairy cows, more dairymen than ever before, says L. V. Wilson, dairy specialist, are putting in some soy beans with their silage corn or are sowing the beans for an emergency hay crop.

Calves Need Much Water.

Calves should have all the water they want to drink. They will not drink very much at a time but if it is before them all the time they will drink considerable in a day.

REFORESTATION CAMPAIGN ON

Trees On 4,000,000 Acres Of Waste Land In State Is Aim—Fines In Year From Game Law Violators Amount To $64,734.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 20.—State Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald today announced the appointment of various committees as the first step in an intensive campaign for the reforestation of about 4,000,000 acres of idle and non-agricultural land in this state. Never before has a reforestation project been undertaken on such a large scale as that planned by the conservation commission.

It will be up to the committee to cooperate with the conservation commission in bringing to the attention of the farmers, industrial concerns and others the urgent necessity in this state for the reforestation of non-agricultural lands and the profits which, in time, will be derived from planted forests.

Commissioner MacDonald also announced that during the first half of November the commission's game protectors prosecuted 300 violators of the fish and game laws and collected $5,483 in fines and penalties.

There were 5,152 violations of the fish and game laws reported to the commisison during the last fiscal year, and fines and penalties from these cases amounted to $64,734.85.

NEW HOUSE OF COMMONS OPENS

Members Assemble for State and Swear in — Viscountess Astor Chosen Seat Alongside Biggest Brewer.

By Telegraph to the Freeman.

London, Nov. 20.—The newly-elected House of Commons, the smallest since 1801, assembled at Westminster today for the purpose of swearing in new members and electing a speaker. It was confidently expected that James H. Whitley would be re-elected speaker.

Deliberations will not begin until after the state opening on Thursday with a speech from King George outlining the country's needs. The Irish bill, ratifying the Anglo-Irish peace treaty and constitution, will then be taken up and rapidly disposed of.

Beginning at midnight new members began to present themselves at the door of Commons in order to affix their cards to the benches, thus claiming their seats. The earliest arrivals got the pick of the seats.

The first member admitted passed through the door at 5:30 o'clock and others followed in rapid succession.

Viscountess Astor of Plymouth, was on hand at 7:30 o'clock. She wore a winter cloak with a deep fur collar. Her face was fresh and smiling and she apparently has recovered from the effects of her hard campaign.

The viscountess fought her way through the crowd of men members and nabbed a choice seat up front right next to the bench where the ministers will sit. It happened that her seat is right next to that of Colonel Gretton, head of the biggest brewery in Britain.

Viscountess Astor who is out for temperance and drink reform and who claimed that the brewing interests tried to defeat her, turned to Colonel Gretton with a winning smile and remarked.

"I hope you do not mind my sitting here"

The gallant colonel rose and replied·

"Not at all."

Viscountess Astor loosened her cloak and sat down, saying as she did so

"You see, Colonel, a nemesis will overtake all those who, like Winston Churchill, oppose prohibition and the women"

Churchill was defeated at Dundee.

There was a big stir when former Premier Lloyd George swung jauntily down the aisle bowing and smiling to acquaintances He picked a corner seat in front of the opposition seats. This was a point of vantage for his oratorical attacks against Bonar Law's Tory government.

A courier, clad in ruffled coat and knee breeches with shoes bearing great silver ouckles, summoned the members to the House of Lords to hear the official result of the election.

Then the clerk of Commons, wearing a great wig like those worn by the judges, swore in the new members. The oath is as follows

"I swear to be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty King George, his heirs and successors, according to the law, so help me God."

Pure Anglo-Saxon Word.

One use of the word "welkin" in modern English is the phrase "the welkin" rings. The word is a good middle English one for sky or clouds; it is more commonly spelled welkna. The Anglo-Saxon word was "wolcen." There is supposed to be a connection between "welkin" and Anglo-Saxon "wealcan," to roll, but this has not been proved.

HOME BUREAU NUTRITION WORK

The first Nutrition Training Schools for local leaders were held last Wednesday, November 15th, at Accord at the Church Hall, and Thursday, November 16th, at Modena in the Modena Church. Eleven communities are sending local leaders to the district training schools.

The Accord district is made up of Kerhonkson, with Mrs. Harry Davis and Mrs. Albert Myers, as leaders, Wawarsing; Accord, with Mrs. H. M. Eppes and Mrs. John Miller as leaders; Stone Ridge, with Miss Jeanette Davis and Miss A. Gordon, as leaders; High Falls, with Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Hart as leaders, and Alligerville.

The Modena district is composed of Modena, with Mrs. R. Jenkins and Mrs. R. Locke, as leaders: New Paltz; New Hurley, with Mrs. Wilkin as leader: Shawangunk, Mrs. Furman as leader; Bloomington, with Mrs. Jos. Yunker as leader.

At this first meeting the relation of nutrition to health was brought up. Many diseases were mentioned in which it was found that most of these were caused by wrong nutrition.

The next Nutrition training schools will be held on December 13th and 14th. Between now and then all of these 22 leaders will have held nutrition meetings in their respective communities. The Modena meeting is set for Wednesday, November 22nd, at 2 p. m., in the church; Bloomington meeting is set for Thursday, November 23rd, at 2 p. m., in the Bloomington S. S. room, and Accord meeting is set for Tuesday, November 28th, at 1:30 p. m., in the Church Hall.

TEST GRAIN FUTURES ACT IN SUPREME COURT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Counsel for the Chicago Board of Trade today filed in the supreme court of the United States an appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Carpenter at Chicago, refusing a permanent injunction against enforcement by Secretary Wallace of the grain futures trading act. This action again brings to the supreme court of the United States the test of constitutionality of the law.

HOME BUREAU'S DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

November 25 Set as Time for Workers to Visit Member and Secure Renewals.

All organized Home Bureau communities in Ulster county will observe November 25th as Home Bureau Day. On that day, every member and non-member in the different communities will probably receive a visit from some one of the community committee and will be asked to renew or become a new member of the community Home Bureau.

Women who join the Home Bureau today no longer join to get a dollar's worth out of it, or in the hope of getting two dollars worth in return for the investment of one dollar. Membership in the Home Bureau in these days, is an endorsement of the organization. It is a pledge of service to it. It's a pledge to help an organization which is working for the improvement of the homes, and raising the standards of living. We are working for prevention rather than cure.

The Ulster County Home Bureau asks the support of all thinking citizens to help it accomplish this purpose.

COLORED K. H. S. STUDENTS PLACED IN FALSE POSITION

Kingston, Nov. 20, 1922.

Editor, The Freeman:

H. S. Vanderzee's letter, referring to remarks made by Judge A. T. Clearwater is misleading.

By direct inquiry we have ascertained that Mr. H. S. Vanderzee is solely and wholly responsible for the unauthorized statement, "we of the high school feel that Alonzo T. Clearwater owes us at least one apology."

In fact, as far as we are able to learn, Mr. Vanderzee held no conversation whatever with any colored high school student concerning the subject of his letter.

Without discussing the text of the aforesaid letter, we wish to definitely state that Mr. Vanderzee is alone responsible for its appearance.

We feel that the stating of this fact is due the other colored high school students.

CONFLICTING DISPATCHES REGARDING CHILDERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Nov. 20.—A writ of habeas corpus has been granted at Dublin for Erskine Childers, the Republican irregular leader, according to a despatch to the Evening News this afternoon.

Dublin, Nov. 20.—Erskine Childers, one of the chief aides of Eamonn de Valera in the Irish Republican cause, was executed this morning by a firing squad of Free State troops, it was claimed by Childers' sister this afternoon. Official confirmation is lacking, as Free State officials, up to four o'clock had refused to make any statement whatsoever.

ALBANY'S OUTSTANDING WAR HERO IS DEAD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 20.—Albany today mourns the death of Andrew Denn, the city's outstanding hero of the World War, who died yesterday following a short illness. Death was due to pneumonia.

Denn was one of three men who represented the World War soldiers of New York state at the burial of the Unknown Soldier in Washington.

Twice wounded, Denn received the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre for capturing a machine gun nest.

RUMANIANS OFFER DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The American debt-funding commission held a formal meeting today for the first time in two months, to receive from Eftimie Antonesco and Constantin Antoniade, the Rumanian representatives, a plan for deferring the payment of the principal and interest of the $41,000,000 Rumanian debt to the United States.

Mrs. Felton Was Ready.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Greeted by a wave of handclapping from scores of women already assembled in the galleries, Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton of Georgia, the first of her sex to become a United States senator, made her first appearance this morning on the senate floor an hour and a half before the senate was scheduled to reconvene. She was escorted by former Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia.

A Record Vote.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, N. Y., Nov. 20.—They knew how to record the vote in the little village of Bristol near here. A complete tabulation of the vote, cast at the recent election, and completed today, showed that John Tabor of Auburn, Republican congressional candidate, received 21 more votes than were cast by persons voting.

HIGH COURT TO HEAR RAIL CASE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The United States supreme court today decided to render a decision on the powers of the Railway Labor Board under the law.

The court ordered the suit brought against the board by the Pennsylvania Railroad to be brought before it for decision. The suit questions the powers which the board claimed.

TITLE "OLD MAID" BUGBEAR TO SOME WOMEN VOTERS

Editor of The Freeman:

Dear Sir: In regard to an item which appeared in one of your recent issues, "Why Women Won't Vote," I want to say that I am heartily in accord with the writer. But, poor soul, she might have gone farther and told us just why an unmarried woman hates to tell her age. It is not because she is ashamed of it. If her years have been spent honorably why should she be? But we are all a little sensitive and we don't like to be called "Old Maids." Some of the married women in a community seem to look down on the unmarried ones. Why this is so, Heaven only knows. Even the glib-tongued youngsters of today speak sneeringly of their teachers and others as old maids. Yet what would many children do without the patient, helpful, old maid aunt, who pets them, helps care for them, even sometimes adopts them when parents are taken from them. As for the old maid teacher, I guess St. Peter will only ask what she did on earth and upon being told, will just fling wide the gates. I wonder of the life record of many a married woman (previous to here marriage) would stand as close an inspection as would that of the old maid whose life in most cases has been one long sacrifice and self denial for others. One other point. Why, when the census is taken, are men sent to take it who have lived in, or near, that community all their lives? That does not make an unmarried woman feel very comfortable either, for can a man keep a secret any better than a woman? He cannot. Does a man hate gossip? Just watch him and time him when he meets one of his old cronies.

ANOTHER WHO WON'T VOTE.

HEARING ON "BONE DRY" SHIP ORDER, JANUARY 2

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The supreme court of the United States today set for hearing January 2, the appeals of both foreign and American steamship companies against the Daugherty "bone dry" ship order. Foreign steamship lines contend that the United States prohibition law cannot prevent them from carrying liquors as ship stores within or outside the three-mile limit. American ship lines assert the Volstead law cannot be extended to them by regulation.

SMALL LAKE STEAMER SINKS; ONE DROWNED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 20.—All members of the crew of the small wooden steamer City of Dresden, with the exception of a sailor named Kerr, were saved when the storm tossed vessel sank in a gale on Lake Erie on Saturday night, according to despatches reaching Buffalo from Amherstburg, Ont., today. The vessel, owned by Captain McQueen of Amherstburg, sank a short distance off Port Burwell. The men were rescued by a tug.

FEAR LOSS OF LIFE IN GALES ON COAST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 20.—Fears that from ten to twenty-five men were lost in recent gales off the North Carolina coast, were aroused here this afternoon when the captain of the port received a radio message stating that a 200 foot schooner, bottom side up, is drifting 145 miles southeast of Cape Lookout. Two coast guard cutters were dispatched to inspect the derelict.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 20.—The stock market opened irregularly today with dealings on a small scale. U. S. Steel was ½ lower at 104¼ and Crucible showed a loss of ¾ at 64⅛. Utah Copper rose ⅛ to 62. Corn Products ⅞ to 131⅛ and New Haven ⅜ to 23⅜. Great Northern showed a loss of 1 point at 86.

The market moved in an irregular manner all through the forenoon but movements included the making of a new high record in many stocks. The most important changes were to higher levels. Otis Elevator rose six points to 152; Public Service of New Jersey 2¼ points to 98¼; Corn Products 2⅞ points to 133; Tobacco Products nearly 3 points to 53¼ and Gulf States Steel 2¾ to 75¾. Standard Oil of New Jersey yielded 4 points to 196.

Trading was quiet during the greater part of the afternoon when the market developed a firm tone. Consolidated Gas moved up to 122¾, a gain of over 2 points from its low price of the morning. Continental Can gained 3 points at 102. U. S. Steel moved up to 105. Baldwin Locomotive rose to 125½. Anaconda yielded 1 point to 47½.

The market closed irregular; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Todd and J. W. Mulnix attended the funeral of Orlando Molyneaux, which was held at Arkville on Friday of last week.

HIS LIFE AN EPIC

Capt. Arthur Jackman a Hero to Newfoundlanders.

Lives In Their Memory—"Honest as de Sun He Was, and as True as Steel."

Among the sealers of Newfoundland certain figures loom gigantic. Such a one is Capt. Arthur Jackman, dead but never forgotten. Long before I reached Newfoundland on the steamer from New York, I began hearing about Jackman's incredible exploits. Many people in St. John's told me about him. And at the ice the sealers were constantly recalling bits of the Jackman legend. Jackman seems almost a national hero.

It was Jackman, most famous of seal killers, who once when he had an infected thumb called for a hatchet and calmly chopped that thumb off, "standin' dere on de ship's brudge, sir, bare-handed an' in a green split-tail coat." It was Jackman who once knocked a man down into the hold, jumped after him, flailed him around; whereupon the man sank all his teeth in Jackman's leg and went raving crazy.

The sealers tell you how Jackman was never drunk at sea or sober on land; how he used to trick all the other sealing captains and clean up the patch before they could reach it; how one time though short of coal himself, dumped 20 tons on the ice for a rival captain to pick up; how another time, when the funnel was ripped off by a blizzard, he built a wooden funnel and carried on to success.

"Roughest man in the world, sir, but inside of him a real man! Seven foot high he was, wid a hand like a bucket. Big-boned, sir, an' hard as de devil's 'id. Only one man ever licked 'im—dat was a Scotch engineer he locked into de cabin to give a beatin' to. De engineer hammered him stiff, and Jackman loved him for it.

"Honest as de sun he was, an' true as steel! He had prayers every night, sir, an' yit he had a calendar printed without no Sundays on un, at all, so dere wouldn't be no Sundayin' abird. He'd putt de Sunday men on de ice, an' keep 'em dere ahl day.

"Very polite he could be, too. One time he says to a man he was fightin' wid, 'Please don't come a-nigh me or I'll have to split ye wid dis hatchet.' Oh, Jackman was 'id of 'em ahl! He made up to seven t'ousand dollars a year"—fabulous wealth for Newfoundland—"an' died clean broke. Give away every cent, he did. His funeral procession was de laangest ever seen in St. Johns. Oh, dere never was narr un like Cap'n Jackman!"

The Jackman epic is interminable. Jackman is by way of becoming a Newfoundland solar myth.

The reference to Sunday men requires explanation. Before the Sabbath law went into effect certain men refused to kill seals on Sunday; and these were Sunday men. Today seal killing is taboo on Sunday.—George Allan England, in Saturday Evening Post.

Couldn't Please Her Husband.

Husbands are curious animals. They have odd tastes and likings. Really their fancies are fickle. Their appetites and passions are not easily restrained. The clerk of any divorce court knows that. Here was the case the other day of the husband who complained because his wife was taking on too much figure. He said that she had the waist of a walrus and could wear a meal sack for a kimono. He said that nobody could love a fat wife.

So the spouse took up the matter of reducing. She read all the literature pertaining to the anti-fats. Finally she got hold of some powerful dope that bit into her frame like a buzz saw. She shed weight as if it were being swept off with a broom. From being fat she went into reverse English. She became really thin.

All for the love of a husband!

Now the man is suing the wife for a divorce. He says that the wife took drugs and cosmetics that made her wan and ethereal and that she lost and forfeited his love in the doing. He doesn't care for any pale and sickly companion about his home.—Los Angeles Times.

Necessities of Life.

Schnapps and cognac were officially ruled to be necessities of life by a German court when two buxom barmaids, Maria Rhodes and Lyda Bock, with their employer, were fined recently for profiteering in brandy.

According to the German law, necessities of life must be marked in plain figures and sold for no more. Luxuries need not be marked and the marked prices may be raised at will. When it was proved that a price higher than that marked had been collected for brandy the barmaids were fined 3,000 and 1,500 marks respectively, and the proprietor, Herman Loewer, 7,000 marks.

Cost of America's Wars.

The Revolutionary war cost the government $135,000,000 and 395,000 troops were engaged. The War of 1812 cost $107,000,000 with 471,000 soldiers engaged. The Mexican war cost the United States $100,000,000 and engaged 101,282 troops. The Civil war cost the North $6,189,929,000 and the northern troops numbered 2,859,132. The World war cost Uncle Sam the huge sum of $24,000,000,000 and there were over 4,000,000 men in the service of the country.

Making an Alibi.

Scrupulous Valet (on finding half a crown in the pocket of his master's new waistcoat)—"It's a thousand pities for the waistcoat, but there's nothing else for it. I must make a hole big enough for the money to drop through."—London Tit-Bits.

LOCAL POSTMEN BEAT PO'KEEPSIE

Saturday night at the Kingston Y. M. C. A., before a crowd of about 250 the basketball team representing the post-office clerks and carriers defeated a team from the Poughkeepsie post office by a score of 45 to 21. The visitors were conveyed in autos by the local postmen from the Rhinebeck ferry house on Ferry street to the Y. M. C. A. and later in the night after a beefsteak supper at which covers were laid for about 50 was served in fine style by Mrs. Nora E. Becker at the Colonial dining rooms, Broadway and East O'Reilly street. The Poughkeepsians numbering 18 were taken back to the lower part of the city in autos and conveyed across the river in a launch to Rhinebeck where they took a New York Central train for home. Harold Johnston featured for the Kingston postmen with eight fields and five fouls. A return game will be played later at Poughkeepsie.

BAYER TO BUILD TWELVE BUNGALOWS

George Bayer of West Hoboken, N. J., who some time ago purchased the Charles Wright place at Hurley Cross Roads, has begun work preparatory to the erection of 12 bungalows of two rooms and kitchenette, each, which he will lease for the summer season to out of town people, having some of them engaged for next summer by New York parties. Mr. Bayer is a carpenter by trade and will do the work on the bungalows.

TRICKED OFFICIAL OF SOVIET

Customs Authority Satisfied He Was the Victim of a Particularly Well-Played "Bluff."

Travelers in and out of Batum, the center of transit to and from Tiflis, Baku and other points in Persia, are learning how to circumvent some of the restrictions of the soviet authorities, says an exchange.

There is the case of the pet cat of Xenia. Xenia Makiltzous, an exponent of Russian dancing who is not unknown in Boston and other American cities, had to return to Petrograd on personal business. That concluded, she went south and was lately in Batum anxious to go to Trebizond, down the coast in Turkish territory, to fulfill a dancing engagement. The port authorities suspected she was trying to bid them farewell and at the same time carry away a few of the jewels for which Russia had become famous. So they began their game. They detained Xenia, searched her and took away her money. Still she would go.

"All right," they said, finally, "if you insist; but you can't take that Angora cat. We have a little idea that you have fed her jewels and that once aboard the steamer—"

Tears, Xenia shed them copiously, but the shower was in vain. Then an official said he believed he would cut the cat open any way, then and there.

Whereupon there came to the front Mr. Maklitzona, Xenia's manager, theatrical, diplomatic and otherwise, and her husband. "Let a man handle this situation," he declared. "Cut the cat open," he said, "but on these terms: If jewels are found in her inside you, Mr. Customs Inspector, can shoot me. If there are no jewels, I will shoot you. There is the pistol; these are my sporting terms. 'Go ahead and cut.'"

But no official could withstand this evidence of good faith. He let them go to Trebizond, all three, the dancer, the diplomat and the cat. He now tells the story on himself and still insists the cat carried the jewels.

Plenty of Stock.

An eminent author once granted an interview to a journalist who said he had heard the author was interested in stock, and inquired what number of cattle he possessed. "Oh, I have about two thousand head—principally bees," was the reply.

BINGHAMTON BEAT ELEVEN OF K. H. S.

Score Was 39-0 But Game Was Far From One-Sided—Davis Injured—Stuyvesant Next.

The Kingston High School football team went out to Binghamton Saturday only to meet another reversal, this time to the tune of 39-0. Although the score looks as though the game might have been uninteresting because of the apparent superiority of the Binghamton team it was decidedly the other way and furnished quite a number of thrills for the spectators. The teams lined up on an exceedingly muddy field which made it quite a difficult proposition for the teams to get their footing and made it practically impossible for Vogt to run any plays around the ends. Binghamton started off with a rush and practically bewildered the home team in the first quarter scoring two touchdowns by a series of line smashes and a very effective forward passing game. In the second quarter however the Kingston team seemed to find itself again and succeeded in keeping the Broome county team on the defensive for the best part of the quarter. In this quarter Kingston made some substantial gains by a series of forward passes and in fact Vogt competed one over the goal line but the referee failed to count the score as he claimed the ball was caught a few feet out of the end zone. After this quarter however the Binghamton team had things all their own way and it was just a question of how many touchdowns they could annex before the end of the game. In the third they scored twice and in the last quarter pushed the pigskin over for the last touchdown of the game. Davis, captain of the local team, was knocked out in the second quarter having had three vertebrae in his back knocked out of place. Although Vogt played the entire game he was handicapped somewhat by his shoulder which has been giving him considerable trouble since the Poughkeepsie game in this city.

The fellows who made the trip reported that they were treated by both the students of the high school and the citizens of the city in a most commendable fashion and were given a wonderful time during their stay in the city. This coming Saturday, Stuyvesant High School, the champions of New York city, will play at the Fair Grounds.

Radio on Motor Busses.

Equipping motor busses with radio apparatus is a departure inaugurated by a transit company operating some eighty-five of these vehicles on the Pacific coast. This innovation is the result of the keen rivalry of the bus concerns to obtain for their respective lines the patronage of the thousands of tourists who annually visit the western states. That the venture is practical has been fully demonstrated by extensive experiments. Possessing only a two-step radio short wave receiving outfit, the experimenters could hear concerts at a distance of fifteen miles from the broadcasting station, and this despite the obvious necessity of employing a low antenna. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Money Talks!

It was a warm day and the front door of a meat and vegetable market was wide open. The proprietor of the market, a man known for his absent-mindedness, was berobed in a flowing butcher's apron and was busying himself with some accounts. He did not hear a woman and a little girl enter the market, for when he hastily opened the cash register and stooping over the drawer, said: "Hell-o." The giggle of the two customers brought him back to life in this world and he answered the fatigued telephone in the way designed by sensible mankind.

PRINCETON SEEMS TO BE CHAMPION

Comparison of Her Season's Record Shows Her to Have Edge on All Big College Elevens.

By Davis J. Walsh.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 20.—Iowa, Michigan, or Chicago, may establish undisputed right and title to the Big Ten football championship. California, no doubt, will coast into another title on the Pacific slope, Cornell, West Virginia and the Army may remain undefeated in the east, but no team is going to outclaim Princeton when it comes to the final showdown. The Tiger's record is as good as any and better than most.

If Chicago gains the decision over Wisconsin and finishes the conference campaign without a defeat, the Big Ten situation will lose caste because of Princeton's intersectional victory over the Stagg entry. If Cornell beats Pennsylvania, it will merely establish the Ithacans as a fine team, but will not prove them a great one. Any team can win with a hand-picked schedule.

Again if the Army beats the Navy, it will have a fair enough claim to the eastern title, but not an altogether sound one because Princeton has just finished with the business of knocking over Yale while the Army considered itself fortunate in pulling out a tie with the Bulldog.

California's record suffers in proportion to the weakness of its opposition. So does that of West Virginia, although the latter gained considerable prestige by beating Pittsburgh.

Notre Dame will be in a position to dispute Princeton's championship pretensions if it disposes of Nebraska. The Hoosiers' record is a clean one but they could get nothing better than a scoreless tie with the Army, the only real opponent they faced, with the possible exception of Georgia Tech.

All in all, Princeton is sitting very handsomely with victories over Harvard, Yale and Chicago and a season of victories behind it. The Tigers on paper, were not the best team in the east, but paper strength is often a gay deceiver.

It did not, for example, make the Cincinnati Reds lose the National League pennant in 1919 nor make the Yanks win the recent world series.

Princeton cared not at all what the dope said. It was a team of two fisted young men who went out to die with their cleats on and were quite surprised to learn that they still lived on.

They had the fight of their jungle namesake developed to a remarkable degree but their real strength lay in the depth of their intelligence. Football men are pretty well agreed that not team ever calculated its moves with the craft and precision that Princeton did.

An example was the performance of Thompson in running with the ball instead of punting on the fourth down deep in his own territory. Yale tacklers broke through and downed him almost on the goal line but so accurately were the remaining seconds timed that the game was over before Yale could line up to rush the ball.

That was playing the thing very safe indeed. A punt, for instance, might have been run back across the goal line for the whistle cannot end the game while a play was in motion.

In countless other ways the impromptu goal line pass against Chicago and the triple pass of the Harvard game, for example, the Tigers showed a depth of subtlety and decision for which its opponents had no adequate reply.

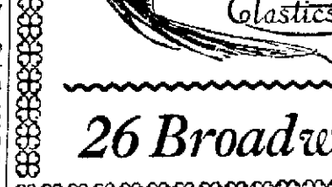

UPHEAVAL IN AMATEUR ATHLETICS; SUSPENSIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 20.—Other important developments today are expected to follow the suspensions of Joie Ray and Jo and Frank Loomis, famous Chicago athletics, at a second session of the Amateur Athletic Union's convention. According to reports, sensational records credited to Charles Paddock, the California sprinter, will be discredited on the basis of alleged inaccuracies in timing.

The application of Loren Murchison to be given credit for the 60 yard indoor record of six and one-fifth also was denied by the committee was the 1.000 yard mark of 2:12, made by Hal Cuthill.

The suspensions of Ray and the Loomis brothers, were the outcome of an old controversy over the alleged charging of exorbitant expenses.

ALBANY HIGH BEAT CAMBRIDGE

Last Saturday afternoon, Albany High School defeated the football team representing Cambridge High School by a score of 45-7. The game was played on Alexander Field, at Union College, Schenectady. According to information from the Capital City press, this victory makes the Garnet and Grays the champions of Northwestern New York state. The Albanians held the ball the greater part of the game, but during the second and part of the third quarters the Cambridge gridders kept them guessing, making a touchdown in the second. The Capital City players were the heavier and it appeared better trained of the two teams, but the other team knew football. The manner in which the Cambridge captain called his plays attracted much attention. Instead of calling signals, as most all high school and college teams do, the fellows got together before each scrimmage and were told the play. They had no open plays with which to make big gains, and had to work consistently to make their single touchdown. Albany played good ball, but they were not working as hard as they might have been. Flood and Empie of Albany, who gained many friends and admirers when the up-staters played here last year, were the stars of the game, the former making four touchdowns and the latter two.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT NARROWS TO THREE.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 20.—Jake Schaefer and Willie Hoppe, champions, present and past, will meet tomorrow night in the first match of the tournament now in progress for the world's 18.2 balke line billiard championship. As was the case last year, when Schaefer wrested the title from Hoppe, the latter probably will go into the final match without a defeat since he is scheduled to play Erich Hagenlacher of Germany, the weakest player in the field, this afternoon.

Schaefer also will be seen in action before the match with Hoppe. He will meet Welker Cochran of San Francisco in tonight's match.

The possibility of a three-cornered tie is being considered in view of the fact that Edouard Horemans, the Belgian, has lost only one match in four appearances.

Lewis Favored.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Nov. 20.—Ted ("Kid") Lewis is a five to four favorite over Roland Todd, whom he will fight at Holland Park tonight for the middleweight championship of Great Britain.

KINGSTON DEFEATS ORIGINAL CELTICS

World's Champions Added to List of Locals' Victims Sunday—Upstate Teams Have to Stop Kingston—Troy Here Wednesday Night.

"Stop Kingston" is the cry of the teams in the New York State Basketball League. The local team has a firm hold on the first position and if the other quintets can't do better, Kingston will be classed as the Celtics were in the Metropolitan League, "to fast for the circuit."

The local representatives have won seven straight games and their position at the summit of the list was strengthened following Saturday night's contest, when Albany defeated Troy, who was second on the list. Kingston will have three games this week to perform in, two with Troy and the other with Schenectady. Troy plays here on Wednesday evening, Kingston plays at Troy on Friday and at Schenectady on Saturday. The Wednesday and Friday contests should prove good games as the Troy combination is within striking distance of the local leaders.

An interesting bit of news for local basketball fans is the announcement of the victory for the Kingston team over the Original Celtics at Madison Square Garden on Sunday, the Celtics' first defeat of the season. Some question as to the keeping of the time arose and the Kingston team either won by a 21 to 19 tally or a 23 to 22 score. Nick Harvey, who played with the local aggregation last season, was in the line-up in place of Borgman. He played the guard position with Artus. The two Power brothers were in the fronts. Knoblauch was the pivot man.

At a meeting of the New York State League and Eastern League managers held Sunday it was decided that a series of three or five games would be played between the winners in each circuit. Matters pertaining to Sedron, Friedman and Riconda, listed on the Albany team, were also discussed.

The Standings.

Team.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Kingston	7	0	1.000
Troy	5	2	.714
